Dear David

I have been approached by a number of constituents who have expressed concerns about a company who were conducting a survey on the Clinical Commissioning Group's behalf in Banbury Town Centre on Friday 10 and Saturday 11 March.

As I understand it, those approached were not told on behalf of whom the company were acting, and some were not allowed to participate, despite volunteering to take part. A number of my constituents who were interviewed have told me that they felt the questions were leading, and that they were not allowed to fill out the questionnaires themselves. I was also concerned to hear that some participants were "paid" for their time by means of a Health Lottery ticket.

I would be very grateful if you could investigate this matter, or clarify the CCG's involvement in this exercise so that I can provide reassurances to my constituents.

Yours

Victoria
